Special place for the people of Helsinki

Helsinki-Malmi Airport is under threat of city development plans to use the area for housing purposes. The people of Helsinki and Friends of Malmi Airport association work to keep the airport in aviation use. According to repeated surveys, 67% of Helsinkians support the effort.

Helsinki-Malmi features rare fauna and flora after decades of little human interference. Nature takes care of the balance between hares and foxes that are common in the area. Rare bird, bat and insect species are present, as well as critically endangered wild brown trouts (Salmo trutta) – see www.longinoja.fi.

EFHF – Helsinki-Malmi

Helsinki-Malmi international airport is the main general aviation airport in Helsinki area, serving over 40 000 operations annually (2017). It is also the main Finnish general aviation training base and an official border crossing point. 75-80% of operations are training flights. The airport can serve a variety of aircraft from medium-sized business jets to small ultralights.

There are over 3.000 aviator members in active flight clubs, aviation scouts, DC-3 association and Friends of Malmi Airport association – among others.

The airport is located 10 kilometers from Helsinki city center. It is operated by the Malmi Airfield Association.

A PPR is required, see ppr.efhf.fi. The airport's airspace is uncontrolled (G), but advice is available from a duty officer during operating hours. All aviation fuels are available. Up-to-date service links and latest news can be found at www.malmiairport.fi.

Helsinki-Malmi Fly-In

Helsinki-Malmi Fly-In gathers aviators from all over the world together to enjoy the unique atmosphere of this historical airport. The Fly-In is arranged in the end of May, and participation is free for all.

The Fly-In is a get-together of all aviation enthusiasts. The 2018 Fly-In is also the 80th Anniversary of the Airport's inauguration on 15 May 1938 – see www.helsinki-flyin.fi.

How to get there?

The best way to arrive is, of course, by plane or helicopter. The airport is open from 0700 to 2200 hrs EET. The airspace is uncontrolled and located under Helsinki-Vantaa TMA. Helsinki-Malmi airspace extends to 700ft MSL.

Public transport, taxis and local aviators are available for transportation. A bus stop is just 500 meters from the world-famous main terminal, a key remaining example of 1930's aviation era.
